FALL LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

Indiana Fall Leadership Conference

This month, select members of our DECA chapter had the invaluable opportunity to attend the Indiana Fall Leadership Conference, an event that brings together DECA chapters from across the state. The leadership conference offers a unique blend of learning, leadership development, and networking opportunities. This year, our members immersed themselves in a series of workshops and presentations led by the Indiana DECA executives, acquiring tips and strategies that we are excited to bring back and share with the Penn Chapter.

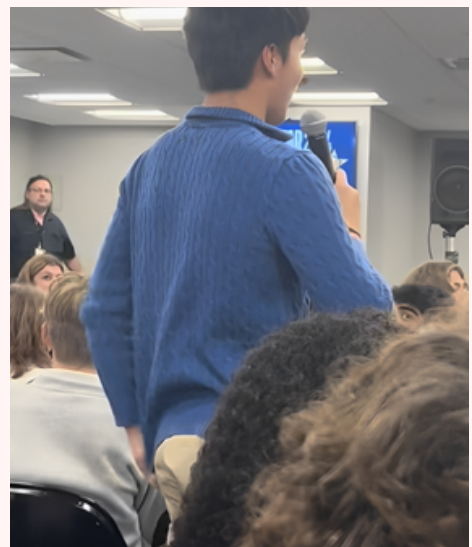

Networking

A key highlight of the conference was the chance to engage in networking and team bonding exercises. These activities were designed to break down barriers and encourage open communication, allowing our members to connect with their peers from other chapters. Through collaborative challenges and interactive discussions, our members expanded their social and professional networks, gaining new friends and future collaborators.

Judge Insights: Q&A Session

The conference featured a valuable Q&A with DECA judges, offering direct insights into competition judging criteria. Our members gained crucial tips for excelling in future DECA events, enhancing their understanding and competitive strategy.

Pacers Game: A Historic Win

The Indiana Fall Leadership Conference wrapped up with an exhilarating Pacers game against the Spurs, a night that will be long remembered not just for the game itself but for a significant milestone in basketball history – Coach Rick Carlisle's 900th career victory. The Pacers' triumph with a score of 152-111 was not only a display of their impressive skill and teamwork but also a celebration of a coach's remarkable journey in the sport. As we cheered from the stands, the atmosphere was electrifying, filled with the energy of this historic sports achievement. This shared experience, amidst the thrill of victory, was a fitting end to a day of learning, growth, and DECA camaraderie.
